Dear Allen:

After dinner, when the men were talking, [ ] said one thing which I thought might be worth repeating to you. He said that he had been at a reception at the Soviet Embassy for Mikoyan, at which representatives from the Warsaw Pact were the only guests. Some lady asked Mikoyan what was the news in Moscow and he replied that the biggest news and biggest subject of conversation there was the new Penal Code. He said this would be the subject that interested the new Congress which is coming most of all. This may be worth remembering and watching.

Yours,
